Do you know that in 2014, 8,338 tonnes of solid waste were disposed of in Singapore every day, producing enough incinerable solid waste to fill 16 Olympic-size swimming pools?

Or that each person generates an average of 0.87kg of domestic waste per day in 2013?

Help us in rallying communities to care for our environment and reduce the waste generated in our daily lives!

In this call for creative outreach projects, the areas to be explored include:

- Reduce: How can we get individuals, households and organisations to recognise the importance of reducing wastage and not wasting food in their day-to-day activities?
- Reuse: How can we enable individuals to see new possibilities in reusing or repairing their household items through community sharing platforms?
- Recycle: How can we encourage individuals and households to start and adopt recycling as a habit and way-of-life?

Share with us your innovative ideas on how we can encourage our community to practise the 3Rs and reduce waste generation. We look forward to hearing your exciting proposals!
