

Tackle climate change in a game about urban redevelopment || 27 February, 11:30am - 1:00pm

21 February 2019 || TO NUS Staff

Land redevelopment, a difficult task in itself, is now made even more complex due to climate change. We are forced to consider our land development more carefully than ever before, because the stakes are much higher this time around.

And you have the chance to be part of it.

After a successful run at 'Eco-fest @ NUS UTown', Accommodate (a community group) is bringing back this game about urban redevelopment for NUS staff. You will be playing the role of ministry officers, with the chance to work alongside others to redevelop Singapore for the future. While this game is by no means an exact representation of the actual process, it will help us understand what it takes to balance priorities in a country that wants to do so much with so little. Re-designed to focus specifically on the issue of climate change, participants will get to explore the relationship between economic and population growth amidst environmental constraints.

To register, please click here. Limited to 20 participants.

Light lunch will be provided. Please bring your own water bottles.

ACCOMMODATE
A game about Urban Redevelopment @NUS

VENUE
Evans room (Level 2)
Ventus Building
8 Kent Ridge Drive
Singapore 119246

TIME
27 February, Wednesday
11:30am - 1:00pm.

Co-organised by:
NUS National University of Singapore | Office of Environmental Sustainability | ACCOMMODATE (A community group)

The poster features a stylized, colorful illustration of a cityscape with various buildings, trees, and a body of water. In the foreground, a hand is shown holding several game cards. One prominent card is orange and labeled 'New Retail District' with a hand icon. Other cards show a calculator and a document with text. The background is a light blue and green gradient.