

Sustainable Grocery Shopping || On-site Conversations on 08 March

27 February 2019 || TO NUS Staff

Have you wondered what we should do in a supermarket to be environmentally responsible consumers?

What certified palm oil and paper products can be bought in a supermarket?

Are “ugly” fruits and vegetables, i.e. with imperfections, safe to consume?

How do you minimize packaging and disposable containers whilst shopping?

After last year’s successful run, we are bringing back our on-site conversations to explore the not-always-straightforward answers to the questions above and how best to shop for groceries while minimizing our environmental footprints.

Sustainable Grocery Shopping

On-site conversations

Date: 08 March 2019

Time: 4:30 - 5:30pm

Meeting point

Kent Ridge MRT station entrance (next to NUH taxi stand)

*We will walk to our destination near the MRT station.

Join us on a journey to discuss how we can be more sustainable as consumers. Meanwhile, if you wish, you can also do your grocery shopping (i.e. put what we discussed into practice simultaneously).

*Please remember to bring your own reusable shopping bags.
