Agreement for Collaboration between National University of Singapore and Nagoya University & Universitas Indonesia

On 13 May 2015, Office of Safety, Health & Environment (OSHE), National University of Singapore (NUS) formalised its ongoing partnership with two Asian universities by signing an Agreement for collaboration and staff exchange on safety, health and environmental matters.

The Agreements signal the strengthening of relationship between NUS and Nagoya University, and NUS and Universitas Indonesia. Signing on behalf of NUS was Dr Peck Thian Guan, Director of OSHE. Professor Shizuaki Murata, Director of Environment, Health & Safety Office (EHSO) inked the Agreement on behalf of Nagoya University, whereas Professor Dra. Fatma Lestari represented the delegates from Universitas Indonesia for this momentous occasion.

The collaborative activities include:
(1) Study visits and exchange programmes of staff,
(2) Sharing of experiences in developing better safety, health and environmental standards,
(3) Exchange of publications and documentation on current research,
(4) Joint research and other activities within the range of interest of both Offices,
(5) Organise joint symposia, workshops and conferences.

Figure 1. Signing of Agreement by Dr Peck Thian Guan and Professor Shizuaki Murata
Figure 2. Dr Peck Thian Guan, Professor Dra. Fatma Lestari and representatives from NUS and Universitas Indonesia at the Agreement ceremony between both universities